Consent

My name is , and I am a member of a team of researchers conducting a study on behalf of the World Food Programme to better understand the situation of your households. I will ask about the food consumption, livelihoods strategies, assets, income and expenditure, and the general living conditions of you and your household that would help us in improving the tools used to assess households' food security situation and needs in {country/region} and elsewhere.
Your household has been selected by chance and the participation is voluntary. All information gathered during the interview are strictly confidential and will solely be used for scientific purposes with nothing identifying you or your household. Also, no information about you, or persons in your household will be disclosed or given to any person(s), institution (s) or authorities.
Your participation is highly appreciated. Your decision to participate will NOT IN ANY WAY be linked to food/WFP assistance either now or in the future. You will receive a compensation of US$1.50 after completing the interview.
This interview will take around 45 minutes to complete. The call will be recorded for data quality purposes only. If you give your consent now, you may revoke your consent during the interview if you no longer want to continue without giving reasons without any negative consequence to you or your household. Do you agree for this interview to proceed or not .
